Hisoki Souta

Hisoki Souta was born into the Enenra-Shinobi clan. A clan of humanoid demons birthed from the Yokai, Enenra. These demons have the ability to vanish into smoke becoming invisible and gaining the ability to walk through walls. This clan focuses intently on training hitmen and assassins, who are very efficient and effective due to their stealth capabilities. Hisoki however, didn't take his training very seriously, spending most of his days trying to woe the ladies. Eventually, his senseis got fed up with this behavior and cast him out of the clan, to fend for himself out in the spirit wilds. His time in the wilds was rough. But over time he befriended a few spirits and began to appreciate nature. Now living in the wilds among his spirit friends he uses his assassin skills to ward off anyone who threatens the wilds.